BOCHES ARE UNABLE TO HALT DRIVE

LATEST REPORTS FROM ALL SECTORS CLAIM GERMANS ARE MAKING GIANT EFFORTS TO STOP ADVANCING ARMY.

MANY KILLED BY TANKS

Australians Aided by Whippet Tanks Are Pushing Enemy Back With Heavy Losses. Persia May Join Allies.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] London, Oct. 4.—News from all sectors of the western front tell of giant efforts by the enemy to stem the daily advancing tide of battle. The Germans are putting in their best troops and according to all correspondents are fighting with the energy of desperation.

Great Retreat.
Still there is no sign of any great retreat except the withdrawal in the Flanders sector, where the British have occupied Arras and Lens and are closely pressing the retreating enemy. The capture of the rich French coal region affords great satisfaction here.

Line Extended.
In the Sequoyia-Houma sector, the allied breach in the Hindenburg system was extended today and the fighting reached the outskirts of the Montebellin, where Australian units with tanks are doing the most successful work.

Important Attack.
The important German attack to the retention of this portion of the line is indicated by the fact that the enemy is endeavoring to prevent a frontal breakthrough between Cambrai and St. Quentin. General Boehn's army has been made so strong that it is the equivalent to a complete army group. The Gazette declared, "There is great danger along the whole western front. It cannot be long before an important breakthrough from the Hindenburg line is about to occur, according to the universal military opinion here."

Enormous Effort.
In the meantime the Germans are putting forth enormous efforts. They are counter attacking heavily and the battle is swaying back and forth in the deadly grapple. There has been a further move to the attitude of Turkey. It is pointed as a matter, to some extent concerning the situation that the whole Turkish fleet in the Black Sea has been ordered to retire from Constantinople itself and the Bosphorus batteries are garrisoned by Germans and Austrians. There is a report that Persia is planning to show signs of taking sides with the allies.

Hardest Task.
French Headquarters in France—General Gouraud's army has still the heaviest task of all the French armies. Innumerable feats of individual courage are recorded. One French soldier with an automatic rifle captured a German machine gun battery. He crept up on the battery position by himself and shot all the gunners. A lieutenant, a sergeant and private were captured. The French troops with 106 prisoners by making the Germans believe they had been outflanked in force.

Days Tribute.
A tribute to the skill and courage of an adversary was given in the last few days by a mortally wounded German officer, who explained to his captors that he was fighting for his country by Christmas. As a soldier I congratulate you.

Progress Advanced.
London.—The progress between Hoppe and Mericourt. Further north our advance troops reached the railway east of Lens, and the general of Verdun, in the Argonne, Barden, Fomere and Houplines.

Capture Villages.
London.—French forces in the Champagne have captured Ordeuil, Chateau, northeast of Somme-Py. Mont Blanc, a position of considerable tactical importance, also has been taken from the Germans.

German Alarmed.
French Headquarters, Oct. 4.—With the progress of the allies along the front from the Aisne to the Meuse the Germans are daily becoming more alarmed over their position. During this battle field belong to good divisions and have fought with the utmost tenacity. The sole exception to this rule is the German division which was withdrawn after a single day's fighting.

None but first class troops are of any value between the Lorraine and the Argonne. The Germans are making abundant ground there without the greatest risk. Allied forces are daily nearing the Lorraine railway which permits the enemy to move his reserves from point to point. During the last two days the Germans have made the enemy route from the Argonne along the Aire valley useless except by night. The next line of communication is 15 miles to the north. In this sector, however, the French have to deal with the German Prince who does not desire to be the first German commander to give the order to retreat.

Pursue Germans.
London.—British forces pursuing the retreating Germans in the Lens region have reached the railroad east of Lens. Field Marshal Haig announced in his office statement today. To the southeast the British have made

NEW GERMAN CHANCELLOR IS APPOINTED

PRINCE MAXIMILIAN OF BADEN COUSIN OF KAISER, APPOINTED IMPERIAL CHANCELLOR TO SUCCEED VON HERTING.

TO ANNOUNCE PROGRAM

New Chancellor Will Announce His Program at Full Meeting of the Reichstag on October 5th.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Amsterdam, Oct. 4.—Prince Maximilian of Baden has been appointed German chancellor, says German announcements received from Berlin. Deputies Greber, centrist, and Scheide mann, majority, social democrats, have been appointed secretary of state without portfolios.

Official Statement.
The official statement adds that Prince Maximilian also has been named Prussian foreign secretary. He will announce his program at a full meeting of the Reichstag October 5.

Desperate Effort.
Washington.—A desperate effort by the Kaiser and his advisers to hoodwink the U.S. and the German people into a belief in the democratic disposition of Germany is seen by observers here in the appointment of Prince Maximilian as imperial chancellor and Scheide mann as secretary of state.

Official Announcement.
The official announcement of the appointment of Prince Maximilian of Baden as imperial chancellor, concludes with the statement that the new government will endeavor to bring about a socialist peace.

A League of Nations.
New York, Oct. 4.—Prince Maximilian of Baden, the new German chancellor, according to a speech he delivered in Karlsruhe, Aug. 22, the speech which is quoted in the Cologne Gazette of August 23, a copy of which has been received here, was delivered at a joint session of the Baden parliament on the occasion of the 100 anniversary of the granting of the Baden constitution. The prince is president of the upper chamber.

Washington, Oct. 4.—It is suspected Germany is about to make a new peace proposal disguised under a new democratic program. With these names on the roster of the rulers of Germany, the Kaiser might point to Germany as a realization of his recently announced policy of popular rule.

RETURNS STOLEN MONEY BEFORE GOING TO FIGHT
(By International News.)
Monsieur, Paris, Oct. 4.—I am about to say for ever there and I feel as though I will never come back. Fourteen years ago I picked up a pocket full of 11 francs and I will forgive a lonely soldier boy. I am sending you 15 francs for a little interest. I am on my last furlough. This was the last letter I received from the cashier. I received by accompanied by the cashier. His conscience relieved, some "lonely soldier boy" is on his way to fight the Hun.

BRITISH AVIATORS RUIN FOUR MACHINES
[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Paris, Oct. 4.—In aerial fighting on the Flanders front today British aviators destroyed four German machines. The British aviators, who were flying in the morning, were successful in their attack on the German machines. MUST HAVE EIGHTY-FIVE MEMBERS TO HAVE HALLS
[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Madison, Oct. 4.—No barracks or mess halls will be built at any of the normal schools unless they have at least 85 members of enrollment. This was the decision reached at a meeting of the board of normal regents and central board of education.

Complete Arrangements.
Green Bay.—The Green Bay vocational school has completed its arrangements for the training of motor men. Classes in radio work, motor truck driving, and show repair have been organized and if there is a sufficient enrollment, classes will be made up for horse shoeing, army cooking, carpentry, tailoring and machine shop work.

These classes are to provide drafted men with knowledge that will give them higher ratings when they are called. Certificates will be given to students when called for service. The work done in the school will be shown to the military authorities before the training is completed. The course of study will be in accordance with the call but will be given certificates.

San Francisco Water LEAVES $30,000 ESTATE
San Francisco, Oct. 4.—It pays to be a water—in San Francisco. This was established conclusively when the superior court appointed an administrator for the estate of Harry Hastings, a water contractor who died in 1917. When the Hastings case came up in court it was shown that the water contractor had given up his present jobs to seek more lucrative jobs in the ship yards, as has been the case in many other trades. An inventory of Hastings' estate showed that it was worth, at a conservative estimate, $30,000, practically the entire sum being collected through tips.

Dies From Kick.
Neenah—Henry Strey, 46, is dead as a result of being kicked in the abdomen by a horse which he was hitched to a wagon. Although he was rushed to a hospital, he died shortly after.

American Steamship Herman Frasch Sunk Result of Collision

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, Oct. 4.—Sinking of the American steamer, Herman Frasch, as a result of collision with the American steamer George C. Cutty, was announced today by the navy department. The craft sank in seven minutes. 41 survivors have been accounted for. The collision occurred at sea on coast in latitude 42.08 north and longitude 64.38 west. First report to the department had few details. The Henry had her bow crushed but after standing by all night to pick up survivors, resumed her voyage. Both vessels were cargo carriers in army supply transport service. The Frasch was a ship of about 4800 tons gross, carrying a crew of 99 officers and men. The Cutty is a tanker. Only 41 of the Frasch crew are accounted for. It is feared there was heavy loss of life.

American Aviator Brings Down German Flyer After Fight

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

With American Army Northwest of Verdun, Oct. 4.—Aviator Rollin Meyer of Oakland, Calif., shot down a German airplane today near Verdun in a spectacular fight. Although his own machine was badly damaged, Meyer landed safely. His own machine came down immediately after the German plane, whose officers surrendered to Meyer, carrying the machine gun of the German airplane as a souvenir. Meyer bought the enemy airplane in on foot.

War at a Glance

NAVAL BASE DESTROYED.
American, British and Italian warships have destroyed the Austrian naval base at Durazzo, Albania. This sensational exploit was reported by the British navy. The base was a large center in the Adriatic that of Pola although the port of Plume may be used for this purpose.

ITALIANS ACTIVE.—The attack coming at a time when the Austrians in the Balkans are in dire straits after losing their support line eastward to Macedonia appears to be significant. Italian troops launched an offensive on Tuesday. It suggests perhaps military operations may be carried out in the northern Albanian coast in the rear of the retreating Austrians and the situation shows large possibilities.

Durazzo is within 100 miles of Brindisi, the Italian naval base and is a strategic point which is directed the operation of the allied fleet in the Adriatic.

GERMANS RETIRING.—The German armies which have been holding the front along the sector from Lens to Arras, are in retreat and with the exception of a few stragglers are hurrying to the rear. The situation shows large possibilities.

When New York troops entered Arras, St. Louis on Friday, the Germans came out of their hiding places with uplifted hands and were surrounded by the American troops. The Germans threw heavy grenades and killed a number of New York boys. Immediately after the capture of the village with flame throwers and gas projectors went forward and filled the village with flame and gas until not a single German escaped.

American aviators were busy all day today carrying out bombing attacks on Conflans, Longuyon, Audun, Gomary, Buxieres, Bigneulles, Chamilly, Epres and Arras. The Americans dropped 374 tons of bombs. Arras, Buxieres, Gomary, Chamilly, Epres and Arras were bombed. In 12 days flying on this front 34 successful missions have been undertaken by American aviators.

Losses Heavy.
The American tanks after smashing in their way through the German line wheeled about and repeated the operations with deadly results. The enemy losses were extremely heavy. In one German company nine men were killed and 40 were wounded out of 70. In another company ten were killed and 40 were wounded out of 80.

WILSON'S SPEECH QUOTED BY VILLAGERS IN REMOTEST INDIA
[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

New York, Oct. 4.—Extracts from President Wilson's speeches are being quoted by villagers in the remotest part of India, where loyalty to the allies is declared to have been fostered largely by America's entrance into the war, according to reports submitted to the joint committee on the Rev. Baker, superintendent of the mission in the Meerut district.

EAST OF ARGONNE.—East of Argonne forest the American force facing the Krimhilde-Steeling line appeared to be held up by the desperate defense of the enemy. This may only be temporary, however, as the nature of the country has made it difficult to move up heavy artillery for the resumption of the drive against the Argonne.

IN OPEN COUNTRY.—Northwest of St. Quentin the British today are reported as fighting in open country beyond the Hindenburg line after having pushed ahead five miles since Monday.

From Lens northward and from Rheims eastward to the Argonne the allies continue to bend back the German flank in smashing attacks.

The breach driven through the German line south of Baveux was now about five miles. To the north the British are plunging forward southeast from Le Catellote, while on the south the French are attacking the strongly fortified positions of the Argonne.

BITTER RESISTANCE.—The German resistance is better, but there has been no let-up in the strong attack pressure. In the French line this morning the British captured four thousand prisoners.

With the British in the open country northeast of St. Quentin and the cavalry and tanks pouring through the breach, the German positions about Cambrai and Laon will become most precarious.

Through the opening in the line the British would be able to throw troops to take both Cambrai and Laon in the rear. West of Lille the British continue to press eastward while on the south the French are attacking the strongly fortified positions of the Argonne.

AMERICANS ADVANCE IN CHAMPAGNE

YANKEE FIGHTERS ENTER CONFLICT IN CHAMPAGNE THIS MORNING AND LATE REPORTS SHOW BIG ADVANCE.

TANKS IN THE FIGHT

American Tanks Play Important Part in Fight at Apremont. German Ruse Kills New York Boys.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

With American Army in France, Oct. 4.—American troops went into action this morning on the Champagne front. A report from the French army states they had advanced considerably by noon and had taken Blanc Mont and Media farm.

When German forces advanced on Tuesday in an attempt to capture Apremont on the front, northwest of Verdun, American tanks entered from the town in all directions. The tanks went rushing through the German ranks firing bullets into them from all sides and spreading the utmost terror and consternation.

Gun Emplacements Found.
Two concrete emplacements for big guns were discovered west of Vernesme when New York troops advanced along the eastern edge of the Argonne forest. The guns had been removed by engineers who believe they were 305's. The emplacements were 100 yards apart and apparently built more than a year ago. Big guns were scattered through the Argonne forest and from day to day they have been taken by the advancing New York soldiers. Among them were two 150's and several 77's.

Roads leading from the Argonne forest to Mont Vonnelle and to Malin court have been found to be barred by concrete built concrete pillars. Caution against the operation of allied tanks. At safe distances behind these pillars, anti-tank gun positions have been found.

New Yorkers Killed.
When New York troops entered Arras, St. Louis on Friday, the Germans came out of their hiding places with uplifted hands and were surrounded by the American troops. EAST OF ARGONNE.—East of Argonne forest the American force facing the Krimhilde-Steeling line appeared to be held up by the desperate defense of the enemy. This may only be temporary, however, as the nature of the country has made it difficult to move up heavy artillery for the resumption of the drive against the Argonne.

IN OPEN COUNTRY.—Northwest of St. Quentin the British today are reported as fighting in open country beyond the Hindenburg line after having pushed ahead five miles since Monday.

From Lens northward and from Rheims eastward to the Argonne the allies continue to bend back the German flank in smashing attacks.

The breach driven through the German line south of Baveux was now about five miles. To the north the British are plunging forward southeast from Le Catellote, while on the south the French are attacking the strongly fortified positions of the Argonne.

BITTER RESISTANCE.—The German resistance is better, but there has been no let-up in the strong attack pressure. In the French line this morning the British captured four thousand prisoners.

will also go from Madison and also from Stoughton. The trip will start early in the morning and the men will return Sunday evening.

ARE WE PATRIOTIC?

Are we patriotic? This question can be answered by the one little word of three letters—"YES". The initial response to the Liberty Loan drives, the number of five hundred dollar subscriptions, the statements of men in the office of the loan headquarters of men who come, working men and working women, and wish to subscribe two to three hundred dollars each, puts to shame the talk Janesville is not patriotic, and yet the drive has not yet started. We have not heard the opening gun yet. Right Monday, Tuesday, next, have been solicited
by the flying squadrons that start on Thursday next.

The response to the request for clothing for the Belgian sufferers has also been most liberal. The amount of material received, the little dresses, the half-worn clothing, all have been graciously received, labeled, packed and shipped where they will do the most good. On top of this comes the demand for the Red Cross—the Janesville center—if you please, and their rummage sale, and the results are so surprising in a financial way, in bargains for the purchasers, that we hardly realize these are war days.
The rummage sale started Thursday morning and the contents of the store were almost cleaned out by right and a new drive started for more salable material. This fund is used to maintain the rest room for the mothers, the sisters, the sweethearts of soldier boys now at war, who come to Janesville to purchase goods or are passing through the city. For the girls who are working in the various industries where they have taken men's places, needed in other lines. For the general welfare of the city as a whole,
it is a patriotic move, these war days,
and the success of the undertaking is phenomenal.

But to get back to the Liberty loan.
Do not be backward about making your contribution. Even if it is but one bond you can afford, two, three or a dozen or more, subscribe. Exactly dollar counts, and every dollar helps Uncle Sam's heavy interest, and the interest is for you, and the money loaned is for the use of the boy over there who is fighting our individual battles. The headquarters are still receiving contributions and will continue to do so. The Janesville quota is large, so be one of those to make it look like a fly-speck on a bit of tapestry in putting it over the top. Are we patriotic? YES.

THE END NOT YET.

At a time when the balance of the war is swinging so strikingly to the allied side, that over-confidence which will ultimately prove the ruin of German militarism must be avoided at all costs. The end is not yet.
In spite of all falsehoods, Germany was never fighting a war of defense.
She is not far distant from it, but even now she is fighting in a confession, with German soil violated, says the Wall Street Journal.

It may be that Belgium is to be evacuated in the near future and that the desperate resistance along the northern border of France, on lines with typically pagan names, is to facilitate retreat through Luxembourg into Germany, with a rear and forced looting of what remains. But Germany within her own borders will be defeating a narrow front, and pitiful as the spirit of her people seems in that adversity which only strengthened the French and British, it may yet stimulate another and better patriotism.

"This is no time to slacken a single effort, however desperate the German situation may seem, and that it is desperate, Berlin itself is constantly reminding us. The German situation cannot be glibly said. The situation of Bulgaria is a story between wind and water; and to repair the damage done is a task which might well have appalled Germany two years ago, when her strength was not approaching exhaustion and her many power seemed limitless. To retrieve what has been lost, in view of the fact that the allies can easily place a million men in that field, would involve a new invasion on a colossal scale, to which the first invasion of the Balkan peninsula would be the merest child's play.

"The Turks are probably at the end of their rope and Austria has unquestionably felt the halter draw for a long time past. Men can fight long on a half-empty stomach, with confidence in victory and relief. But facing the certainty of defeat, even the strongest positions cannot be successfully held, as the results on the western front show. The Kaiser im-pales his people to fight to the last breath, and even he must admit that they are out of breath, though he has still in his armies men who will not run. Bravery is a quality confined to no nation.

"The warning of a successful resistance until the later Winter makes active operations in the field difficult.
It may still be pointed out how close and logical the development of German appreciation of the outside world has been. At the outset conquest was the German boast, and it was to be achieved in a short time.
Then within three months it was postponed to the following Spring, but was still an unquestioned certainty.
It moved up again in all its arrogance with the admission of Turkey and Bulgaria and the successful conquest of the lines of communication. With some success for the allies on the western front, it was still explained that Germany could not lose.

"Even so late as last March a Russian conquest secured by fraud, a defeat of the Italians, revived the hope that Hindenburg might yet seize Paris, that the U-boats would stop our men from crossing the Atlantic, and that the result at worst would be a compromise peace, representing in everything but name, and even in that, a victory for Germany. These hopes have gone glimmering, and Germany is now talking of something no German would have considered possible even six months ago—defeat.

This defeat must be made real.
Every contract and concession in Russia and Rumania must be cancelled. Whatever armistice proposals may be made, Germany must lay down her arms as Bulgaria has done, submit to occupation, and German cities must be forced to pay individually and for the personal toll of their citizens for the restoration of French, Belgian and Serbian cities wantonly destroyed. There is no other way which will permanently assure a peace of the world."

TURKEY NEXT.

New that Bulgaria has been settled let the allies take up the question of Turkey. Would it not be a delicious Thanksgiving dish for us to have a real, genuine dish of Turkey served up to the world with a Dardanelles sauce and Damascus stuffing? The stuffing is all ready, for the British have taken that city, the oldest in Syria, and with Bulgaria out of the war and the railroad from "Baghdad to Bagdad" side-tracked, it would appear as though the Dardanelles dressing would not be hard to mix. Of course Uncle Samuel, not being at war with either Bulgaria or Turkey, can not say anything as to the terms of peace, but we all hope that the victories gained by the English in Palestine, the redemption of the "Holy Land" of biblical days, the country fought for by the Crusaders of the middle ages, will never again be placed under Turkish control. It was to be hoped that Bulgaria, the robbers of the Balkans, will be taught such a lesson that they will "beat their spears into ploughshares" and become a peaceful nation. One by one these allies of the "Empire of Satan," who has enthroned himself in Berlin and is personified by the Kaiser, with his six sons as archangels of the realm of darkness, are falling by the wayside and perhaps the prophecy of Revelations will come to pass in this day and generation after all.

SUFFRAGE.

President Wilson has evidently not yet given up hope of passing that suffrage measure. It appears back on the calendar of congress and as long as it does it will come to a vote.
Perhaps by the next time the "willful" democratic senators will have an opportunity to cast their individual expressions on the subject and President Wilson, who controls ninety per cent of democracy, will be able to call upon ninety-five or a hundred per cent and see the measure through the dangerous shoals of the upper house of congress. Suffrage has many times been before congress for final adjudication. Sometimes the "House" has settled it and other times the "back" has been passed to the senate and they have promptly turned it down. Now President Wilson calls it a war measure and if it is one let's have it passed.

These folks who complain because Mr. Hoover wants us to save half a pound of food a week, may be among those who pay a stomach specialist ten dollars for telling them they are over-eating at every meal.

"The people who blame the Russians for their cowardice might not have had to stand up against machine guns while armed only with spades and pitchforks.

After having subscribed to the absolutely safe Liberty loan at a good rate of interest, some people are appalled by the thought that they have made a patriotic sacrifice.

Now that the government has for-bidden the manufacture of box-toed shoes, how are we going to assist a book agent to remove himself from the premises?

airplane, but wait until the aerial picnic parties get to dropping their beer

THE MEANING OF THE MAY- FLOWER

Looking back, it seems to me, God knew war was going to be—know in ages past and gave that the day was coming on
When the troops of hate and lust,
Trampling honor in the dust,
Would set out to overthrow
All that's noble, here below.
So against such danger, He Sent the Mayflower out to sea.

Little did the pilgrims know,
When they knelt upon the snow,
Thanking God in humble prayer
For deliverance, then and there
In their breasts was sown the seed
That should serve a mighty need:
That in time should be unfurled
One flag in a troubled world
That should fly on land and sea
Symbolizing liberty.

Now today our work we find,
That is what God had in mind
When the Mayflower too to sea;
Here American should be Strong of limb and clean of heart,
Trained in every human art,
 cherishing the seeds of truth,
Ready with its finest youth
To defend, in danger's hour,
Freedom from the tyrant's power.

Now we see behind God's plan
When America began,
Here the fires of freedom burned,
Here succeeding ages learned Truth's great lessons, here today
Putting selfish thoughts away,
Millions march from field and hill,
God's great mission to fulfill,
"Twas to set the whole world free
That the Mayflower put to sea.

ON THE SPUR of the MOMENT

ROY K. MOULTON

WHALES WILL W. THE W.
State Veterinarian Lytle of Oregon has solved the milk shortage problem for good and all. "The whale," he says, "must be domesticated at a milking. Now, they are not easy milkers, but they can be trained, and a whale in the backyard may at first glance seem an undertaking of considerable magnitude, beginners at the milking game will find it as easy to milk a whale
as to milk a cow.
In the early morning will be forthwith and up to put one foot in the milk and up to it. When the whale switches her tail and slaps the milkman on the side of the head, his troubles will be over and never again will he go forth to undertake the milking of whales.
In the meantime, the milkman, when a cow wallows in the milkman with her tail, she does not kill him, but lets him live to be wallowed again.
Altogether the whale scheme has its advantages. We must only go through the slight formality of teaching whales to eat hay and to browse on clover containing and chew the cud of sweet content. Why not? We are teaching a Hun shark to say "Uncle."

HORVATH FAILS AS SIBERIAN DICTIONARY

General Horvath.

The attempt by General Horvath to set up a dictatorship in Siberia has proved a complete failure. This advice has been received from Vladivostok. Representatives of the allies at that city intervened to uphold the new government's authority, the advice state. Horvath, anti-Bolshevik leader, is of the old school of Russian autocracy, having been an appointee of the former czar. The general is familiar with the far east situation. He has been manager of the Russian-Manchurian railroad for years.

PEOPLE RESPONDING TO APPEAL FOR CLOTHING

The appeal for clothing to be sent over-seas to destitute Belgians, was responded to so generously, that a committee composed of five ladies under the expert supervision of Mrs. L. C. Brewer, is kept busy packing and sorting the various articles of apparel. Piles of crisp gingham frocks, middie blouses, tiny shoes, sweaters, caps were sent from the grade schools throughout the city. One small girl of six trudged in with a big bundle of aprons and bonnets which she claimed she had "outgrown." Another youngster shyly offered a set of white furs, which she hoped would please some little Belgian girl's heart.

Blankets, shawls, heavy winter coats and several suits have been donated by the stores, one store having sent a whole box of fluffy pink and blue blankets with Mother Goose figures to delight the children as well as keep them warm.

Over three hundred pairs of shoes have been packed ready for shipment. One big box contained several suits and over-coats for men while dozens of boy's sweaters, hockey caps and mittens, more than filled the counter. Complete layettes enough to clothe over one hundred infants were ready to be packed. Several of these outfits were made and sent in by the ladies of Milton and Milton Junction. Several fine pieces which took prizes at the fair were kindly donated by the girls at the vocational school. The drive has driven 4,880 pounds of clothing have been donated to the Relief headquarters. All this will be sent to Newark, New Jersey where it will be put in bales and shipped over-seas. The stores will remain open for an hour every day this week for those who wish to contribute anything to this worthy cause.

SMILEAGE BOOKS ARE WANTED BY SOLDIERS

Requests for Smilage Books to be given to Janesville boys now in different camps "over here" are coming in to Miss Agnes M. Weber, who is handling the sale of Smilage locally. The requests come from the Smilage Division of the War Department Commission on Training Camp Activities at Washington, where thousands of calls for Smilage are being received daily.

Today, Miss Weber received a letter from G. J. Bremig, manager of the Liberty Theatre Camp. He stated that two theatre boys had applied for Smilage Books, and asks that the city Smilage committee see that the books be sent to them.

Saturday, young ladies will sell Smilage Books at the banks, under the direction of Miss Katherine Dougherty.

It has been suggested if the purchasers do not know any individual to be handed to one of the young ladies that the requests for books from Camps can be filled.

THE GREATEST FIGHTING MEN IN THE WORLD WAR FOR DEMOCRACY

Allied leaders in war.

These four men are leading the world's war to crush the Hohenzollerns and make the world safe for democracy. General Petain, at the left, with Foch is leading the French forces. General Haig, next to him, has led the British in their glorious drives. General Foch, next in the picture, is generalissimo of the allied forces—in supreme command of the men in the field. And at the right stands General Pershing, "Black Jack" commander of the American forces. Pershing typifies the American spirit which has won the heartfelt thanks of our allies and has surprised the Hun. These four men, with the men back of them, can be counted upon to bring the Hun to his knees.

MAY SUCCEED TO BULGARIAN THRONE

Prince Boris.

King Ferdinand of Bulgaria is reported seriously ill. Some dispatches have stated he may never recover. In event of his death, Prince Boris, his eldest son, will sit on the Bulgarian throne. And a rocky throne it is—and will be. Bulgaria faces financial ruin. Sick of the war, the kingdom may break with Germany. Germany, it is said, may withdraw its support. It has stood sponsor for heavy war loans made by Bulgaria.

Tell of Rain's Approach.

Distinctness of distant sounds, such as the whistle of locomotives several miles away, etc., is a sign that portends almost to a certainty the approach of rain. Haymakers heed it particularly.

The Summer Solstice.

June 21 is the day of the year when the sun is directly over the equator, and for several days about that time there is no observable difference on his position, or his hours of rising and setting. It is the longest day of the year.

FIVE STATES PAY BIG GOVERNMENT TAX

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Washington, Oct. 4.—Five states—New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Ohio and Massachusetts—furnished nearly two-thirds of the taxes collected by the government during the fiscal year ending last June 30. Of the $2,994,708,334 collected in federal taxes, these states gave $2,282,000,000, or 76 per cent, and of the $2,849,032,585 gathered from income and excess profits taxes, the principal source of revenue, these states supplied $1,868,000,000, or 65 per cent. The miscellaneous taxes, $856,619,748 were collected in the whole country.

New York paid $839,875,000, of which $688,265,000 was income and excess profits taxes, or 22 per cent of the entire nation's collections. This was largely due to the fact that many corporations with plants scattered through the country reported earnings from their New York headquarters.

In come and excess profits taxes in 1917 were 7.3 times greater than income taxes in 1917. A table of collections from these sources by state in the two years shows that West Virginia jumped from $1,321,000 to $45,549,000, an increase of nearly 34 times, proportionately greater than any other state. Utah stood lowest in the record of gains with a little less than twice the 1917 amount.

New York, which showed 35 per cent of the total income taxes in 1917, reported only 24 per cent this year. Pennsylvania collected 11.5 times as much in 1918 as in 1917. Illinois showed a gain of 10.5 times, Ohio 11 times and Massachusetts 5.2 times. Southern states with a few exceptions reported gains exceeding the average for the whole country.

Fate of the Cliff Dwellers.

It seems that there can be no doubt that the cliff dwellers were exterminated by their more savage and warlike neighbors, the men being killed and the women being adopted into the tribe of the conquerors, though in some cases migrations may have become necessary as a result of drought or pressure from outside tribes.

Unskilled Supplication.

A Scotch minister was asked to pray for ruin and his prayer was followed by such a downpour that the crops were injured. During the storm one old farmer said to another: "This comes of trusting sic a request to a meenister who isna acquaintit wi' agriculture."—Boston Evening Transcript.

MYERS THEATRE.

"Salome" Comes Next.

Theda Bara, in William Fox's cinema masterpiece, "Salome," the most gorgeous and expensive production ever cinematized, is to be presented for a limited engagement of three days starting next Monday, Oct. 7, at the Myers theatre. Two performances will be given daily—5:15 and 8:15. No performance Monday evening as the theater is engaged for a Liberty Loan meeting.

The sale of seats opened yesterday and the indications are that this engagement will be a capacity one at all performances.

William Fox, who has given to the public many screen classics in the past, has so far surpassed himself in the production of "Salome" that it is doubtful if he can ever duplicate the magnificence of this colossal entertainment.

Over three thousand players are in the cast, and a whole menagerie was utilized including 2,500 horses, 20 elephants, 44 camels, sheep, bullocks, peacocks, oxen, etc.

Lemon Sauce—Mix two level tablespoons of flour with a half cupful of sugar, add one cup boiling water, and stir quickly with the fire. Boil a minute. Take from the fire, and pour while hot into one well-beaten egg, add the grated rind of half a lemon, and the juice of the whole.

Fincapple Salad with Walnuts—Cut sliced pineapple into small pieces, put into a saucepan with the juice and three cups of water, simmer for half an hour. Strain into of powdered gelatin, two of sugar, rind and juice of a lemon, crushed shells and beaten whites of two eggs. Keep hot for 20 minutes without boiling, then strain and when nearly cold line a square

The Hun—his Mark
Blot it Out with
LIBERTY BONDS

"No Compromise with the Hun" is the spirit in which the ten posters announcing the forthcoming Fourth Liberty loan, opening September 22, have been designed by American artists. All of the posters are intended to "hit the Hun between the eyes." Starting among the ten selected designs, both for its simplicity and the brutal directness of its appeal, is the work of J. Allen St. John. This poster shows the imprint of a bloody palm and under it the words: "The Hun's mark." Americans are besought to blot out the red imprint with Liberty bonds. Ten million posters will be used to impress the American people in the coming drive with the necessity of lending to the utmost in order to help Uncle Sam's fighting army win a speedy American victory and to raise the Stars and Stripes over the Kaiser's palace at Potsdam.

BRIDE of BATTLE

A Romance of the American Army Fighting on the Battlefields of France.

By VICTOR ROUSSEAU

Copyright, 1918, by W. L. Chapman

The stunner's look on his face affected Mark more disagreeably than ever. Mark felt nettled, though the words had been fair.

"If there's been a leak," he said "it seems to me it's up to the Brigadier to discover it. It's outside; it isn't our business to locate it. We're doing our part—what more can we do?"

"Come along and tell the Brigadier that," suggested Howard.

Mark, nothing loath, accompanied him to the General's room. But the Brigadier was more furious than Howard.

"I don't know how it happened, Colonel, and I don't care," he cried, thumping the table. "No great harm has been done so far, and of course none of the departmental clerks can be suspected. But it's got to stop, and we've got to find out how it originated."

It was on that night that Mark felt at the end of his powers.

It was early, he had dined and was sitting disconsolately in his apartment; nothing seemed of any value to him at that moment, and his thoughts were ranging round their eternal subject. That it was necessary that he should have treated Mrs. Howard and Eleanor honestly, to protect himself?

He put on his hat and went out, meaning to pay them a visit, or, at least, to walk toward their house while making his decision. He had not decided by the time he reached Massachusetts street, and as he stopped in doubt, he saw a man across the road, staring up at the house.

Of a sudden Eleanor's story recurred to his mind with vivid force. The man was obviously watching the house, and he meant to stay there.

But, as Mark started toward him, the man seemed to take fear, and shambled away. Something in his gait brought back to Mark's mind the recollection of the man who had been seen outside the Misses Harpers' school.

And he began to follow him. It was a role that he had never played before, but justified, in his mind, by the necessity of discovering the fellow's identity.

PETEY DINK VOICES THE THOUGHT OF MILLIONS.

ty. Without any very clear intention in his mind how he was to accomplish this, Mark made his way after the solitary figure, keeping well behind it.

It soon became clear that the man, although he looked like a tramp, had a definite objective. Mark pursued him toward Pennsylvania avenue, until he discovered that he was nearing the least desirable part of Washington, whose location, so near the residence of the chief executive, has always been the wonder and scandal of visitors.

He was in one of those streets that start bravely in the city and end in a dead end, and hardly reclaimed region bordering the Potomac. The houses here were old, many appearing vacant and tumble-down, and for the most part standing each in a little garden.

Mark was beginning to think of backing the fugitive, who, unconscious of pursuit, was about fifty paces in front of him, when suddenly the man turned in at the tiny garden of an apparently deserted house and knocked at the door, which was opened almost immediately.

Mark heard a subdued scream, and then the man's voice in angry altercation.

He was talking to the woman who had opened the door. She looked about five and thirty years of age, and her face, distinctly visible against the light in the hall, was well-bred, if not attractive. She seemed one of those cosmopolitan who frequent the capital; Mark was still uncertain whether her house was one of those residences that are still occupied in this district by the original owners, or whether she was the mistress of one of those gambling establishments that flourish of necessity along the avenues of the earlier alphabet.

The man seemed to be pleading with her, his gestures were growing frantic. He looked about five and forty years of age; his face struck Mark with a certain odd familiarity, though he had never seen him closely before, and bore traces of breeding, blurred either by dissolute habits or by misfortune.

The woman answered him in tones of quick anger, and made a gesture of dismissal. The man held his ground doggedly, the voices became angrier. "No! No, I tell you!" the woman cried. "I don't know who you are! Will you go?"

Suddenly a man came along the passage behind her, carrying a walking stick with a heavy handle. He raised it and brought it crashing down on the other's head.

The man fell to the ground, evidently half stunned by the blow. The man with the cane raised it and brought it down again and again upon the other's head and face, in a succession of sickening crashes.

Mark ran to the garden gate. The man with the stick paused, raised his head, and looked at him. Mark recognized Kellerman. As Kellerman, in turn, recognized him, an angry sneer spread over his face.

"My dear Wallace, what the dickens are you doing here?" he demanded.

"Are you trying to kill this man?" asked Mark.

Kellerman seemed nonplussed for the moment.

"I hope I've given him his lesson," he answered. "He came here and demanded money, and nearly frightened Mrs. Kenson out of her senses. Let me present you—"

Mark looked into the keen, appraising eyes of Mrs. Kenson with dislike and disgust.

"You'd better let him go, Major Kellerman," he said. As he spoke he saw Mrs. Kenson bite her lip vindictively.

"Oh, I'll leave him to you," responded Kellerman airily. "You'll excuse me, Wallace. I'm sure, but Mrs. Kenson's auto will be here in a few moments." Mark, hot with indignation, answered nothing, but raised the man from the ground and got him outside the gate. As he did so he heard the door of the house close softly.

The tramp was half unconscious, and muttering vaguely.

"Four years since I've seen her," he mumbled. "I didn't want money. Only the word. God knows I wouldn't have taken money from her as he said, the cur—"

"Was she your wife?" asked Mark, thinking that he saw light.

"God forbid!" ejaculated the man with convincing spontaneity. "Who are you, anyway?" he demanded, looking at him directly for the first time.

"What were you doing in that place?"

He grasped Mark by the arm. "Are you another friend of hers?" he asked. "Or did you know that it's the swiftest gambling house in Washington?"

Mark took him by the shoulders. "What's your name and where do you live?" he asked. "I haven't time to waste on you, but I'm ready to help you if I can."

"My name? Hartley. Good enough name, isn't it? Live? I haven't lived for more years than I remember. I'm a corpse—see? I wanted to live. That's why I came here when I heard she was in Washington." Walked from New York. Why should she be here now, unless there's another poor young fool like me for her? Where the carcass is, there are the eagles—or is it vultures?"

Mark drew the man's arm through his and led him away. Presently a cab came crawling up. He hailed it and gave him address.

He took him home and played the Good Samaritan, washed his wounds, plastered them, and gave the man a bed in his living room. Hartley had subsided into a state of frightened silence. He looked dubiously at Mark all the while he was receiving his ministrations, and would say nothing.

"Now, please understand," said Mark, "I've brought you here because you seem to me to be up against it. The door's unlocked. And I'm trusting you with my things. Those cups are silver, Hartley—I've won them at West Point. That little picture is by Griffin and worth about seven hundred. That's about all, I think—but I want you to understand you're free, and I'll help you if I can."

Hartley flushed rather oddly. Mark thought, but said not a word. It was a foolish act, he thought repeatedly before he fell asleep; but he must win the man's confidence if he was to learn the mystery. And he was satisfied that his interest in Eleanor's movement boded no harm to her.

In the morning, Hartley was gone, as he expected. But he had taken neither the cups nor the picture.

CHAPTER VII.

On the way to the war department the following morning he was puzzled over the affair, Kellerman's presence in Mrs. Kenson's house, and Kellerman's possible connection with Hartley, who watched Eleanor.

He could not arrive at any but the most fantastic solutions. Kellerman welcomed him with his usual suavity. They carried up the papers from the safe; then Kellerman called Mark into his own office.

"About last night, Wallace," he began. "Of course you acted all right, as you understood the situation, but there was a good deal that you did not understand. That man you took home to your room is a sort of international stoke pigeon, if I can coin the phrase. Quite despicable—the one-time gentleman who has lost his honor; and dangerous, because he knows things that nobody would credit him with knowing. I suppose you wonder what I was doing in Mrs. Kenson's place?"

"Not at all, Major Kellerman."

"My dear Wallace," said Kellerman, laying a hand on Mark's shoulder, "I want to give you a piece of advice. This is quite apart from our work here. I don't think your qualities are adapted to headquarters work. Go back to your battalion—or, rather, take advantage of your friends in Washington to secure a good post"—he emphasized the adjective—"in regimental work."

And as Mark looked at him in stupefaction, Kellerman added coolly:

"I am not speaking officially, my dear Wallace. Take the suggestion as a friendly one. If I can make it a little clearer to you, your presence in Washington is inconvenient to me for personal reasons. I think you will appreciate the reasons—the reason, rather."

The man's insolence was maddening. Mark's impulse was to dash his fists into his face. But discipline told.

Mark saluted stiffly and went away. He sat down at his desk, fuming. Of course Kellerman had referred to Eleanor; and it suddenly occurred to Mark that Kellerman might have made a good deal of headway during his absence.

Mark and Colonel Howard occupied a small room at the end of the corridor; the clerks' room was without; between the two, accessible from each, was Kellerman's office, which communicated, in turn, with the Brigadier's.

Colonel Howard came in after a while, and they went over their plans together. They were engaged on a complicated piece of work, involving tonnage and computations of cubic feet of space for cargoes. There had been an error somewhere, and Mark was trying hard to discover it when the Brigadier came in in his usual irascible manner.

"How long will that job take, Howard?" he asked.

"Wallace will have it finished by noon, sir," answered the Colonel.

The Brigadier waved Mark to his seat impatiently. "Bring it right in to me as soon as you have the figures, please," he said. "I'll wait for it. Sure you can be through by noon?"

"I'm sure, sir," answered Mark, who was hot on the trail of the error.

The Brigadier withdrew, taking the Colonel with him for a conference. Mark worked steadily. The omission was found, the computations were balancing. A clerk knocked at the door.

"What is it?" asked Mark impatiently.

"A man to see you, sir. He says his name's Hartley. Shall I show him in?"

"Good Lord, no! I'll see him in the waiting room," answered Mark.

He looked the office door, went through the clerks' room and into the ante-room. Hartley was standing beside the window. He looked up sheepishly as Mark entered.

"Well?" asked Mark crisply.

Hartley grinned. "I didn't take the cups or the picture, Captain Wallace," he said.

"Well, what about it? What can I do for you?"

"Why, I—I wanted to tell you as much, Captain Wallace. I've sunk low, but not to theft. Only I didn't feel I could stay."

"Good Lord, man, is that all you have come to tell me?"

"Well, you see—there was something else, but—" stammered Hartley.

Dinner Stories

The conversation turned to the subject of damage suits, and this anecdote was recalled by Senator George Sutherland of Utah.

A man in a western town was hurt in a railroad accident, and after being confined to his home for several weeks he appeared on the street, walking with the aid of crutches.

"Hello, old fellow!" greeted an acquaintance, rushing up to shake his hand. "I am certainly glad to see you around again."

"Thanks," responded the injured one. "I am glad to be around again."

"I see you are hanging fast to your crutches," observed the acquaintance. "Can't you do without them?"

"My doctor says I can," answered the injured party, "but my lawyer says I can't."

Private Speedy, formerly a New Orleans citizen, and a late arrival in France, happened to walk alongside of two French appearing girls and remarked to his pal, in a tone loud enough to be heard by the girls.

"Aren't those two pretty girls? I could learn to love them. Whereupon the girls turned around and one of them said in perfect English: 'For the love of Mike, cut it out. How do you get that way?'" Speedy retreated in great haste.

A young man came into one of the boards for examination. He was perfect physically, but his face was homely enough to stop a clock.

"I want to go right after those Huns," he said.

"You're a plucky fellow," said the doctor.

"Well, it ain't plucky exactly," said the boy. "There ain't nothing the Germans can do to me that won't improve my appearance."

Oh, the Luckymobile goes without even a wheel.

Over the glittering snow, for two little rabbits with automobile habits.

Oh, isn't it nice to slide o'er the ice in Luckysnowmobile twenty-three.

For that was the number of the new license on dear Uncle Lucky's autosnowmobile. It might have called it the "Snowmobile."

Well, these two little rabbits, Billy Bunny and Uncle Lucky, had more fun with the Snowmobile than Uncle John and I used to have with our sleds, for we had to pull them up the hill, and the Luckysnowmobile ran up all by itself, you see.

But one day when Uncle Lucky was out riding with his little rabbit new-hew they came across a tremendous great drift. Why, the snow was piled almost as high as the old pine tree where Prof. Crow had his home, and the Luckysnowmobile began to balk, just like a horse, you know. It stood up on its hind runners and pawed the air with the little front red sleds, and then it stood on them and kicked the hind sleds out one, two, three, bang! And, of course, Uncle Lucky didn't know what was the matter, and neither did Billy Bunny, and neither did I until a little snowbird told me.

Well, sir, after a while Uncle Lucky took off his old wedding stovepipe hat and scratched his left ear with his right hind toe, and then he honked on the horn maybe half a million times, but still the Luckysnowmobile wouldn't go through the snowdrift.

"Well, I'll be jiggered!" exclaimed the old gentleman rabbit, and I guess he was for the time being. The Luckysnowmobile would jigger any one, let me tell you.

And then that little snowbird I just mentioned flew down from a tree and said, "I'll tell you what to do Master Billy Bunny and Mr. Lucky. Get in foot, cut out your air pump and blow that snowdrift up to the north pole and cover it over so deep that nobody will ever be able to see it."

"That's a clever idea," said the old gentleman rabbit, and he got the air pump out of the tool chest and he and Billy Bunny took turns at pumping it up and down, and in half an hour, that snowdrift was falling all over the Arctic ocean, and a

BLUES TACKLE CRACK WALWORTHS SATURDAY

Local Football Team Will Play Walworth at Fair Grounds Tomorrow.

After a week of hard practice, the local football team will play the strong Walworth team here tomorrow night. The Walworth team has been playing during the week and the team should be in good shape for the game. Several new players are expected to appear in the game and will be shifted to where they will work to better advantage. The Walworth team will be made up of a number of the locals, as they are a much heavier team than Evansville. They also have a number of old veterans back who do much to boost its lineup. The game will be played at the fair grounds, and it is hoped that now that the people know that the "Blues" have a crack team, all will turn out and support them. One of the most discouraging things about last Saturday's game was the poor attendance. This week a huge crowd is expected to turn out, as considerable school spirit has been raised during the week.

Sport Snap Shots

MORRIS MILLER

The other night in Newark, N. J., Tony Leonard, lightweight champion, and Ted Lewis, champion of the welterweight crown, met in the ring. Leonard is recognized by everyone, including the writer, as the fastest lightweight in the game. He is a harder hitter than Freddie Welsh ever was. Benny is fast and heavy.

Lewis has had the class of a champion ever since he fought his first fight early in his ring career. He carries a kick in both hands and is a scientific ring artist.

But they staged the same sort of a fight that have witnessed innumerable times.

These two clever boxers stood up there before several thousand fans who had paid out round and round and around a few hundred punches that wouldn't land a knut's eyelash, not one clean punch was landed in the mill.

Now we aren't pleading for blood and gore. We haven't the least desire to see murder done in the ring—we have seen too many killed there.

But we cannot figure how two men differing in size and weight and style, meeting for the first time, could so quickly size up each other and develop such perfect defenses that neither could land a single punch on the other.

I guess the only thing the thinking fight fan can do is list the Leonard-Lewis fight with those impudent battles Sam McVey and Sam Langford have staged, with the doghouse bouts and boxing exhibitions have put on, and with the other brawls of the ring.

Oh, yes, there is one other thing that fans can do. That is, fight shy of these much-praised boxing bouts until the fighters show signs of playing fair with the public.

Every now and then something happens which gives the knockers—those who are continually finding fault with the general order of things in these war times—a chance to holler. This is true in sports as well as in other activities.

The latest instance is the recent fight staged by Lewis and Leonard. They swapped box gloves for eight rounds, twenty-four minutes. Lewis received $8,500 and Leonard $11,300.

The knockers are right when they point out that millions of our American boys are fighting or preparing to fight at a wage of $30 per month. Of course the chronic kickers can't get it through their dopes that the government hasn't yet reached the point where it can personally keep in touch with every sporting event. Once again depends on our patriotism, our sense of honor, our sense of justice and fair play to guide us in our actions in these critical times.

The overwhelming majority of folk in the U. S. are doing their part in being true to that trust. But a few money-grabbing, stone-headed, soulless individuals still worship the dollar above liberty and the lives and well-being of their fellow men.

These men are taking the opportunity to grab a few more dollars that ought to be spent in Liberty bonds, war saving stamps or some other worthy cause. Until the government organization is set to investigate all of these activities it is up to loyal Americans to act as judges of these affairs and fight shy of every affair which will mean more to the individuals in money and publicity than it does to America and our boys at the front.

Every Acre Is an Arsenal

Every acre of land that you farm grows more than the crops you harvest.

It grows actual dollars and cents which represent big guns and high explosives, swords and rifles, machine guns and bombs, food and clothing, everything that our brave soldiers and sailors need to drive the brutal Hun back to Berlin and force him to his knees.

Therefore, every one of your acres is an arsenal which can turn out weapons and supplies for our men if—

And only if

You put as large a part as possible of the dollars you get for your crops into LIBERTY BONDS

A Liberty Bond is a loan to protect yourself, to protect your home and your farm, your wife and your children—all that you value and hold dear, all that makes your life worth living. American boys are giving their lives in your cause on the fields of France.

They are giving all for you and yours, and they need help.

Have you done your full share?

How many guns and rifles and other supplies are your acres furnishing?

Think it over.

Buy Liberty Bonds TODAY

Buy Bonds On Your Own Initiative

The Liberty Loan Committee is anxious to have everyone who buys bonds of the Fourth Liberty Loan to call at Liberty Loan Headquarters and make their subscription before the salesman calls so that it won't be necessary to make subscription allotments in Janesville as it has in some other towns. When you call at No. 5 N. Main street be prepared to pay 10% of the amount you subscribe as no further payment will be accepted.
